

David L Nieland

Subject: Assistant Professor in Fish Biology, Western Michigan University

The Department of Biological Sciences and the Environmental and Sustainability Studies Program at Western Michigan University seek applications for a jointly-appointed tenure-track position with specialization in Fish Biology at the rank of Assistant/Associate Professor beginning in Fall 2015, pending budgetary approval. A Ph.D. and relevant post-doctoral experience are required. Candidates with expertise in any area of fish ecology, evolutionary biology, ecophysiology, and ecotoxicology are encouraged to apply. The successful candidate will participate in a new interdisciplinary undergraduate Freshwater Science and Sustainability major, establish an extramurally funded research program, participate in the training of Master's and Ph.D. students, and serve on departmental and university committees. As part of regular teaching duties (2-3 courses per year), some teaching in an online or hybrid format will be required in collaboration with the Great Lakes Water Studies Institute at Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City, MI (<https://www.nmc.edu/resources/water-studies/>). The Institute has excellent research facilities on Lake Michigan available to the candidate.

Information concerning the Biological Sciences Department's and the Environmental and Sustainability Studies Program's faculty and programs can be obtained at www.wmich.edu/biology/ <<http://www.wmich.edu/biology/>>and <http://www.wmich.edu/environment>, respectively.
